TOBACCO BENEFIT ON WALDORF ROOF

Manager Boomer Arranging Entertainment for "Sun" Fund September 7.

TO HOLD COTTON AUCTION

Man Who Bought First Bale for Belgian Relief Will Sell It Again.

Another great treat for the friends of THE SUN Tobacco Fund and for lovers of high class entertainment! The night of September 7 is to be SUM fund night he roof of the Waldorf. Lucius M. en the roof of the Waldorf. Lucius M. Boomer, managing director of the hotel, made the announcement yesterday, saying that an excellent programme will be provided and every effort made to swell the returns for the soldiers smoke cause. This is a new departure for the Walderf, but Mr. Boomer, Mrs. Hubbell, the hostess of the roof, and the patrons of the house, consider the innovation justified in view of the practical and effective work which the fund is doing in tive work which the fund is doing in carrying cheer and encouragement to soldiers in the trenches. It is certain that, besides the roofs regular clientele, always large in itself, the attractions to be provided will prove a magnet drawing great attendance from the general public. This is indicated by the interest which members of the Cotton Exchange and cotton beckers enerally are taking in the brokers generally are taking in the event, an inkling of the plans having reached some of them yesterday.

Cotton Bale Up Again.

will be recalled that the first bale of cotton from the new Georgia crop arrived from Savannah August 9 and was sold at public auction is front of the exchange that day for the Belgian Relief Fund. Samuel Newburger, the purchaser, wanted THE SUN Tobacco Fund to profit also. Accordingly he gave back the bale to be disposed of a second time and he himself offered $150. It was suggested that the sale should not be closed until the occasion of some big uptown entertainment for the fund, and the night of the Waldorf affair the auction will be ended. Mr. Newburger's $150 offer stands, and the bidding will start at that figure. Meanwhile the mar-ket price of cotton has advanced to $175. with prospects of a further rise, and as there have expressed a determination to compete for possession of the first bale, the fund promises to profit hand-

This of course 'is only one article which will be sold for soldiers' smokes. As the Martinique's big fund entertainment takes place just a week later, and other important affairs are in prospect, there is every indication that September will be a lively month. will be a lively month for the fund's reason to wait until next month for op-portunities to assist the cause while find-ing entertainment. Residents of Scoville illage, Coney Island, expect to go over the top for smokes to-morrow night. George Scoville, long a repeating con-tributor, has donated the decorations and the music for a block party to be held on Scoville's Walk, and other citizens re cooperating loyally. Music by a avy band and St. John's Orphan Boys and will be among the features.

SAVES WAR CUPID

Secretary's Dash Gets Wedding License Just in Time. CAMP MEADE, Md., Aug. 28 .- There were those who looked askance until to-day at the manner in which Bernard Flynn, Knights of Columbus secretary here, drove his pennant covered flivver up and down the camp thoroughfares. They predicted the worst sort of a wind-up for the secretary's career and de-creed he never would have need for half the speed he appeared able to coax out of his bounding little road critter.

They changed their minds to-day, however, and admitted that if Flynn had not attained the distinction of being the camp's speed champion the tinkle of wedding bells would not have been keeping the doughboys awake on their army ots to-night. It happened that Private J J Sharkey of New York agreed that he and Miss Bertha Socia, a communicant at St. Columba's Church, New York, should be married August 22. They reckoned without the army authorities, however, for at the hour appointed for the mass Sharkey was aboard a train bound for Camp Meade. Private Sharkey then set 4 P. M to camp rules demand a license before a little more by ordering Private Sharkey to a camp further South aboard a tra due to leave here at 2:30 P. M. That's where Secretary Flynn's speeding proclivities interposed themselves to save an otherwise hopeless situation. Cranking up his fliver Flynn dashed out of camp on two wheels, and an hour later—the train happened to be an hour late fortunately—the flivver snorted back to a chaplain's quarters with the bridal couple clinging to what was left of the nearly exhausted machine. The whistle of the belated train was just sounding in of the belated train was just sounding in the distance as Chaplain Lieut. J. S. Cuddy pronounced the last words of the ceremony. Half the camp population cheered as Private Sharkey kessed his
